TRE FATSHAN TROUBLE. FATSHAN, July 1.

The trouble in Fatshan seems to be ever for the present, only a few days ago the outlook was very threatening. The mandarins did not yield until the last moment. In reply to this order the gates of the town, which had been his therte left open sufficiently for single individuals to pass, were closed altogether. so that all traffic became impossible, and neither officials nor soldiers could get into the town. Many of the Fatshan people went away with their families and valuables into the country, and an outbreak fiant attitude of the people had, the effect of producing a conciliatory spirit in the Authorities, and, having conceded,-or promised to concede—what the people demanded, viz., a reduction of the tariff on some articles, and a fixed scale of fines, vesterday the gates of the town were opened, and business was resumed, after a suspension of about ten days.

FRAGRANT WATERS' MURMUR That it is felt by many residents here but little' or no reformation can be brought noout (especially during the vacation of the Legislative Council) without the aid of a Ratepayers' Association, That if such a body were formed, held mostings, obtained publicity, ventilated grievances, and memorialised the Government, its influence would be speedily | That he should have remained long enough felt and acknowledged by the Executive. That if I mistake not the present Governor would have been heartily glad to have r ceived the views of such a body to aid him in many questions.

That one of the subjects which naturally must have arrested the attention of such a body is the Hongkong Observatory. That the desire to obtain reliable weather reports, storm-warnings and weather forecasts led the ratepayers to spend a very large sum of money on a building and in purchasing instruments for meteorological purposes.

That the staff of this Department has been largely increased, and a large sum of money is spent yearly in the upkeep of this branch of the service.

That little or nothing has resulted, beyond the comparatively irregular dropping of a time-ball for several years, and a mass of figures which may or may not be of use to the cause of science generally.

That the one thing desired and paid for has not been produced, and the bigger the staff becomes the less chance there seems to be of any satisfactory result being obtained.

That most residents have been this week waiting and watching for guidance and instruction concerning a storm 'in the neighbourhood' (not a thunderstorm), but the learned doctor has given no sign, other than 'opq.'

That the Observatory informed the public at 4 p.m. last Saturday that a typhoon existed to the East of Luzon, but as Manila had already informed us several hours before that the typhoon was S.E., and shortly afterwards that it was 'South ! of Luzon, travelling in the direction, of the China Sea, Dr Doberck's informa-mation was valuless. That, notwithstanding the three or four days' time during which the learned Dizector of the Observatory had to locate this storm, it is unfortunate that mever got farther than 'o.p.q.'

That in the interval about a dozen' steamers proceeded South from this port, depending upon the unsided judgment of their commanders, four returned to harbour rather than face the heavy sea, and no one knows what damage has resulted to those which went on

That residents who know more of stormworkings than the whole Observatory staff seem to do, assert that it was quite easy to have located that storm every day efter it was aunounced, even with the telegraphic advices received.

That although the storm passed within ninety miles of this Colony four or five days after its announcement, and pretty severe gusta reminded many residents of the old familiar and dreaded sound, the Observatory folks never got beyond the opq stage.

That there may be difficulties in the way of abolishing this non-productive Department of Meteorology; but it may be possible to get a Committee appointed, composed of nautical men and others, who would be glad to show the learned Ductor what we want and what as a shipping companity we must get.

That the British Marine Officers' Association cannot be accused of a want of activity, and everyone who takes an interest in the large and important class which guides and commands the ships of the Far East must be pleased to read the interesting speeches made by the genial and burly President.
